

THE MAY DAY FESTIVAL

The Government schools and others participating in the program of the May Day entertainment for the McKinley memorial fund will send their representatives to a full rehearsal this afternoon at the opera house at 2:30. Miss Allie M. Felker, chairman of the educational branch of the memorial fund committee, has issued a call for all to be present to run through the program so that no hitches will occur on Thursday evening. The children are already thoroughly well drilled in their various parts and only need the final rehearsal to find them perfect.

The stage manager has had some difficulty in getting the May pole for the opening dance, the carpenter deputed to make it having weided the irons in precisely the wrong places. The St. Andrew's Priory pole will be requisitioned, however, which is the same one with which the girls are familiar. The various choruses have been drilled daily, as well as the participants in the wand drill of the Aala school, and the scarf dance. Several special scenic effects have been arranged for, particularly in connection with the chorus of the "Old Kentucky Home," which the pupils of the Kaahumanu school will render with appropriate costume and gestures. Over a hundred children of various ages will take part in the program, which bids fair to be a conspicuous success.

Tickets, which are in the hands of the Y. W. C. A. and the Kiloahana Art League members, are selling well and the proceeds promise a good sum towards the Memorial Park, as the contribution from the children who will enjoy it. The tickets are redeemable at Wall, Nichols and Company, where they may also be purchased. The date of the entertainment is set for May Day evening, next Thursday, at the opera house.

A MILITARY DRAMA.

The Elfeldts Please the Audience in "A Flag of Truce."

The Elfeldts appeared in a military drama last night and secured the full approbation of a good house. "The Flag of Truce" is by the author of "The Ensign," and while not so well-known a play as the latter, has much of merit to recommend it. It is decidedly of the spectacular order and the class play that appeals to the Orpheum audience. The Elfeldts seem to prove the most popular until the latter end of their engagement, and are making a very satisfactory record for themselves. Fanning and Scott were well suited in their roles, Watson again being to the fore in making fun for the audience. Some new specialties helped matters along to the climax of a very successful evening's entertainment.

New Japanese Theater.

The new Japanese theater at the corner of Pauahi and River streets was opened last night by a new aggregation of artists fresh from the Orient. The principals in the troupe are two Indian and one Japanese jugglers. They held a big mixed audience from 8 o'clock to 11:45. The theater is merely an enclosure with an iron roof. It has a sloping floor and a fairly good stage. One of the most noticeable things in the place is the decorations, which are quite elaborate, consisting largely of gaudy Japanese colorings. The showy regalia of the Indian jugglers was especially pleasing to the natives. The present company will play a week and will be succeeded by another to come from Japan.
